COURT DISMISSES PERJURY CHARGE

Judge Barker Finds No Reason to Hear Case for Defence in Rex vs. Green, Thereby Acquitting Local Lawyer

DECISION REACHED THAT NO SHARES WERE HELD

His Honor Expresses Opinion That Matter Is Too Vague a One Upon Which to Find Intention to Mislead

JUDGE Barker, of Nanaimo, sitting in County Court here last evening, reached the conclusion, after three days of court proceedings before him, that the charge of perjury laid against Mr. J. R. Green should be dismissed. This decision was reached at the end of the case for the Crown, the defence being relieved of the necessity of presenting evidence or argument.

In giving his decision, Judge Barker, who took the case in the County Court here at the request of Judge Lampman, as the latter was a witness in the case, said, "I am not satisfied that Mr. Green held any shares in the company."

"There is no evidence that he is the registered owner of any shares," said His Honor. "The only suggestion is that there are shares that have been turned back to the company and that he may be the owner of them."

He said that, even if it were shown that long before the action he had been interested in some of these shares, there was in that sufficient to warrant him in convicting Mr. Green of perjury in stating that he was not a shareholder at the time of the trial later on, when the evidence was given upon which the action had been based?

Not Shareholder
"There is not enough to warrant me in finding that he was an official owner of shares," said Judge Barker. "Was there enough to warrant me in reaching the conclusion that he was an unofficial shareholder? I think not."

His Honor met the suggestion that the shares of Mr. Hall, who had been returned, were really the shares of Mr. Green by saying that, while it was in evidence that the shares of Mr. Hall were returned in blank, the same was true of the shares of Mr. Dougan. It was therefore just as reasonable to believe that the shares of Mr. Dougan were Mr. Green's as those of Mr. Hall.

His Honor, however, said that might be that the shares so returned were held for someone else who might come into the company, and might be expected to come in.

Canada Will Dominate In Hundred Years' Time

Professor J. Macmillan Brown, Chancellor of Christchurch University, New Zealand, Foresees Effect of Rigorous Climate on National Character

WITHIN a hundred years Canada will begin to dominate the United States, prophesies Professor J. Macmillan Brown, chancellor of the University of Christchurch, New Zealand, who passed through here last night on the Empress of Russia. Dr. Macmillan Brown has been in England for the past three months attending the University Congress at Cambridge, and before returning to New Zealand he is proceeding to the Science Congress at Tokyo by special invitation to represent the University of Christchurch. A famous anthropologist, Dr. Macmillan Brown was well known as an authority on the history of the peoples of the Pacific long before his "Riddle of the Pacific," published a little more than a year ago, brought him into the limelight of a score of the most prominent reviewers. This is the story of Easter Island and its strange monuments. He has just completed a new book, "Peoples and Problems of the Pacific" (Fisher Unwin), which will be put out in about a month, he told a Colonist reporter last evening.

As an attorney for an organization with bogus checks, Sellers learned the methods of forgery.

C.P.R. ACQUIRES CARGO STEAMER

Practically New Vessel is Purchased for B.C. Coast Freight Service—To Arrive in November

WILL SAVE COMPANY FROM CHARTERING

Was Originally Constructed in Government Merchant Marine Programme, But Later Sold

THE Canadian Pacific Railway has purchased the steamer Emperor of Port McNicoll, formerly the Canadian Adventurer, for the Pacific Coast freight service. The sale was announced today.

Now being overhauled at Montreal, the vessel is having 'tween decks fitted, before loading for this coast, where she will arrive late next month. She has a length of 260 feet, with 43.5-foot beam, and a deadweight tonnage of 3,405. The ship was constructed for the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, and was later sold to the Playfair interests, from whom the purchase is now being made by the C.P.R. An inspection was recently conducted at Sorel, P.Q., by officials of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service, and as a consequence it was decided to make the purchase.

The vessel will be used as an auxiliary in the company's British Columbia coast service, in the northern and West Coast routes. She will supplement the Princess Ena's run on the West Coast, as that vessel is now largely occupied as an oil tanker for the B.C. Coast Service, and also save the company chartering cargo boats for the peak of the Alaskan run.

Captain J. W. Troup, manager of the B.C. Coast Service, says the vessel is well fitted to handle freight, derrick equipment being suited for the needs of a cargo service. It was had considerable experience of rough weather in the North Atlantic.

DANGER THREATENS POINCARÉ CABINET

EXTREME RADICALS WISH TO WITHDRAW THEIR SUPPORT FROM MINISTRY
Three-Day Convention Will Decide Situation Too Confused for Making Prediction

BORDEAUX, France, Oct. 14.—The three-day radical party which became the master of the political situation in France after the elections of 1924, only to lose his grip through the difficulties of the financial situation and internal strife, today began here the difficult task of reuniting its various factions. The three-day convention and the decisions it makes are of vital interest to the present Poincaré Cabinet, which may stand or fall on the result.

Extremists within the party have taken the attitude that a coalition with Socialists must be revamped and that the party members must be summoned to retire from the Poincaré Cabinet. This would mean the downfall of the present ministry as soon as Parliament convenes.

Edouard Herriot, Radical-Socialist leader, who is Minister of Education in the Poincaré Government, is the centre about whom most of the controversy will revolve. If his participation in the Government should be discovered, it is felt that the national union Cabinet of Poincaré would suffer a swift break up.

Lord Oxford Writes Letter to Liberals Resigning Position

He Declares That Party Unity Cannot Effectively Be Maintained With Separate Organizations and Separate Funds—He Adds That His Health Cannot Be Depended Upon

Another Chapter Ends in History of Two Antagonists Within One Party Fold

LONDON, Oct. 14.—In a letter to the Liberal party Lord Oxford and Asquith announces today his resignation as leader. He indirectly attributes his action, which he describes as irrevocable, to the dissension which has arisen between himself and Mr. Lloyd George. He declares that he is firmly convinced of the correctness of his own attitude toward the general strike, but that he cannot and will not take part in internal political controversy. He refers to Mr. Lloyd George's refusal to meet in council with the Liberal leaders in order to formulate a policy during the general strike, and declares that party unity cannot effectively be maintained under a system of rival authorities with separate organizations and separate funds. The reference is to Mr. Lloyd George's leadership of the parliamentary Liberal party, which has stood by the war premier in his controversy with other leaders of the party.

Lord Oxford, who was raised to the peerage only last year, has distinguished service to Great Britain, does not contemplate retirement from public life, and says that he hopes he may still be of service to the state and to Liberalism. He is making an address at Greenock tomorrow, while Mr. Lloyd George will speak at Barnstable on Saturday, when both are expected to deal with the crisis within the party.

GROWERS PROPOSE SEASONAL TARIFF

Tariff Board Hears Representative of the Horticultural Society—Request in Detail

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—The Canadian Horticultural Society wants a seasonal tariff on fruits and vegetables coming into Canada from the United States and at private meeting of the Tariff Board they presented their argument. Mr. L. E. Burrows, secretary, Mr. Burrows submitted a memorandum setting forth conditions that prevail. The present duty is on an ad valorem basis, instead of that a specific duty is suggested, for example, two cents a pound on cherries all the year, two cents a pound on peaches, July 26 to October 31; one cent on pears, July 21 to December 31; one cent on apricots all the year; three cents on strawberries and raspberries in June and July; three cents a pound on cantaloupes and muskmelons; half cent on cranberries and thirty cents a box on apples all the year.

On vegetables, the seasonal tariff suggested covers twenty-six different varieties, including two cents a pound on tomatoes from June 30 to December; two cents on cauliflower, May 15 to November 30; three cents on peas, May to September; one and a half cents on lettuce all the year and two cents on cucumbers from May to November.

Before the board makes any recommendation to the Government, growers will be a public hearing on the other side that comprises the dealers and consumers.

Morning Post Speaks Of Massey Appointment

LONDON, Oct. 14.—With a view to effecting an apparently wrong impression in Canada, The Morning Post says that there can be no possible objection to the appointment of a Canadian diplomatic resident in Washington to conduct Canadian business with the United States. Such an appointment, however, the paper states, is an innovation which suggests various possibilities in regard to the whole question of the Empire's foreign policy. The Post has Canadians to believe that it is in this aspect which

WANT ARMISTICE DAY TO BE KEPT SEPARATE

Shirley Women's Institute Considers That Thanksgiving Day Should Not Be Combined

In a resolution passed by the Shirley Women's Institute, that organization went on record as opposed to Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day being combined in one holiday. The members thought that it would not be fitting to combine the two holidays, as the real significance of both would be lost. November 11, it was contended, should be kept as a public holiday in honor and memory of those who made the Armistice possible.

If it was not desirable to have so many holidays in the Fall, then Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day could more fittingly be combined, as they did not commemorate a date.

The Victoria ex-service organizations are all strongly in favor of Armistice Day being kept separate from any other holiday, and hope to see the time come when November 11 will be commemorated by a special holiday.

B.C. Apples Are Praised For Keeping Qualities in Old Country

"A man came into the office last week and ordered five boxes of apples for shipment to Scotland as a Christmas present to his mother. He informed us that a year ago he had done the same thing; that he had heard from his mother as recently as last month and she had said in her letter that she was then using the last box of McIntosh Red apples, and that they were as good as they were on the day on which she had received them, nine months before," states Mr. A. A. Millidge, manager of the B.C. Products Bureau. "There is no question but that the finest fruit packed is sent in the most up-to-date manner and handled as carefully as possible. All who wish to take advantage of this offer should have their orders in before October 31. McIntosh Red, Jonathan, Delicious, Yellow Newtowns and Spitzbergen may be sent at a price of $5 per box."

"Would I be justified," asked His Honor, "in saying that Mr. Green held these shares and so find him guilty of perjury for his statement in another court that he was not a shareholder?"

Question of Viewpoint

There was, he said, a matter of law involved in this. "If a man says he is not a holder of shares when he holds such in trust only, what is to be said to it? There is a difference of opinion on such a matter. Some may say 'yes, he is the holder of the shares as he said.' Others may say 'no.' It becomes a question as to whether he is a legal holder or not," the court declared.

Then, on the matter of interest, His Honor was of the opinion that this was something that there might be a difference of opinion regarding. Was his interest that of a solicitor for the company, or that of a creditor, or some other interest?

It came, said the judge, a question of whether the mind of the person at the time was directed to the aspect of proprietary interest or to some other interest. The matter seemed too broad to his mind to permit of a conviction.

The evidence showed that Mr. Green had been made officially only solicitor, and that he was authorized to sign cheques. He might have done things that he should not have done as a solicitor under that power given him. This, however, did not make him other than what he was appointed.

"The whole thing is too vague," said His Honor, "and too broad."

The meaning of what could be done as a solicitor or as some other official or officer was broad. There was not brought to his mind any particular duty.

Dismisses Action

"I do not think under the evidence that I am justified in finding a verdict of guilty. I therefore dismiss the action."

The decision of the court was reached following the completion of the evidence for the Crown. Mr. D. S. Tait, for the defence, moved to dismiss the action.

The court suggested that if Mr. Clearhue, who appeared for the Crown, had any argument to present he would hear it. At present he was inclined to dismiss the action.

Mr. Clearhue said that he thought that the Crown had presented a prima facie case which the defence was called upon to meet.

Proceeding with his argument on the point, Mr. Clearhue showed that the crux of the case was that alleged was that at the hearing in the case of MacEwan vs. Green, Mr. Green had, in reply to questions, stated that he was not a shareholder nor a director, and that he was never in any shape or form an officer of the company except as solicitor.

Mr. Clearhue said it seemed unnecessary to argue that Mr. Green had supplied all the money for the conduct of this Cobble Hill Logging Company.

Fifty shares went to Mr. Douglas; fifty shares were made out to Mr. Hall, who held them for some one else, presumably Mr. Green.

Changes of shares and changes of directors were not filed with the registrar of Joint Stock Companies. Mr. Clearhue argued, and there had been transfers of stock without evident authority on the part of the holders of the stock. A letter quoted in the evidence in the police court had given the shareholders as including Mr. Green.

Mr. Clearhue said it was not pretended to be said that Mr. Green had held shares registered in his name; but it could not be said he did not hold them in "any shape or form."

Acted as Director

Mr. Clearhue submitted that because he was not registered as a director did not prove he was not one. He might not be a legally appointed director but yet act as a director. Mr. Green signed his name as director.

From the commencement, Mr. Green had acted as a director. He said, in spite of his statement in court, which formed the basis of the charge, that he acted only as solicitor.

Controlling Interest

Mr. Green, said Mr. Clearhue, was controlling the company and dictating the policy of it. That was surely the case.

Mr. Clearhue said that he should have written "M.P.P." and that this meant Mr. Pooley, which he had had in mind. Mr. Pooley said that he knew Mr. Pooley and was a friend. He had, however, never seen Mr. Pooley in connection with this case, and Mr. Pooley was in no way connected with anything in it as far as he was concerned.

different to what would be expected of a solicitor.

In the statement that appeared in a letter filed, and which was written by Mr. Green, there was enough, Mr. Clearhue thought, to warrant the case being met by the other side. This was the statement that shares were held by Messrs. Copley, Douglas and himself.

During the afternoon proceedings, Mr. Douglas was recalled and in answer to cross-examination by Mr. Tait, in which his signature to various statements which did not appear reasonable were called in question, gave as an explanation the reply: "What would you do if you were mixed up in the mess, I was?"

Replying to Mr. Clearhue, witness said he had offered to sell his shares to Mr. Sheppard in order to try and trace these shares and see where they were. He believed he had discussed the matter with Mr. Sheppard.

Layer of Information

W. E. Sheppard, broker, of Victoria, identified cheques put in as exhibits connected with dealings between the Union Logging Company and the Cobble Hill Logging Company, stamped by the latter and signed by "J. R. Green, director."

Witness said that he had laid the original information in the case. Witness said he had had certain information upon which he had had in contemplation a civil action, rather than a criminal prosecution. He had been gathering information for some considerable time.

He was asked by Mr. Tait if he had not informed Mr. Green that if the proceedings were not dropped against him in a civil proceeding a perjury charge would drop on the head of Mr. Green.

Mr. Sheppard denied that he had taken that course. Mr. E. Mitchell, under cross-examination, testified that in 1922 he had learned that Mr. Green's interest in the company was through loans to it.

In 1924 the Cobble Hill Logging Company had been simply a bare charter.

Both Sides File Letters

The forenoon session of the court was devoted to the examination of Mr. F. A. J. Copley, who was interested in the company, having come into the undertaking with equipment which was amalgamated with the outfit of the Cobble Hill Logging Company. Considerable evidence was filed in the form of letters by both sides during the examination of Mr. Copley, each side vying with the other to produce documentary evidence in support of conflicting contentions.

Before the conclusion of the cross-examination of Mr. Copley, the attempt was made by the defence to connect Mr. R. H. Pooley, M.P.P., in an indirect way as having been interested in the prosecution in the first instance. This, however, was met with a flat denial by Mr. Copley, who said that he had had no conversation with Mr. Pooley in the matter.

This aspect of the case arose when a letter was produced as coming from Mr. Copley to Mr. Green dealing with the subject of the settlement of a mortgage, which was held by Mr. Green and given by Mr. Copley.

Wanted Adjustments

The latter had been pressing for adjustments to be made in connection with the mortgage, which was long overdue. It was asserted by Mr. Copley that there should be some deductions.

Mr. Green had offered to meet him and go into the whole matter. A letter written by Mr. Copley was produced by Mr. Tait urging a settlement and dated about the time that the proceedings were being launched. A sort of postscript to the letter set out that the writer would be seeing the M.P.P. for Equilmait.

Mr. Copley admitted that he should have written "M.P.P." and that this meant Mr. Pooley, which he had had in mind. Mr. Pooley said that he knew Mr. Pooley and was a friend. He had, however, never seen Mr. Pooley in connection with this case, and Mr. Pooley was in no way connected with anything in it as far as he was concerned.

A letter from Mr. Green was produced which had informed Mr. Copley that, if he thought there was anything wrong in connection with the accounting in the matter, that he (Mr. Copley) could go ahead and do as he saw fit.

When the case opened after lunch this matter of Mr. Pooley's name being associated in the evidence was again brought up.

Mr. Copley testified that he had written the letter referred to because Mr. Green had written him and asked that he call and see him on some business. Mr. Copley said he had replied that he would have no business with him until this matter of the mortgage was settled up. He had suggested the name of Mr. Pooley as one whom he was likely to consult on any business with respect to the mortgage.

Mr. Green said witness had objected to this and he (witness) accordingly had not called upon Mr. Pooley at all.

Mr. Copley, who had held a contract, testified the suggestion had been made to him by Mr. Green that the logging plant of the Cobble Hill Logging Company should join its plant with his. He was to receive shares in the company to the value of the plant he merged with the other.

Letters were produced by Mr. Clearhue purporting to show that Mr. Green was a shareholder, a director, and solicitor of the logging company. Objection was raised by Mr. Tait to the production of the papers as, he said, no notice had been given that any papers were to be produced.

His Honor said he felt the evidence should be allowed. If the other side had been taken by surprise time could be allowed to meet it.

A letter produced from Mr. Green and marked "confidential" gave the information that the shareholders were Messrs. Douglas, Green and Copley, with thirty-five shares each, and Mr. Halliday with one share. It was stated that six treasury shares had been due to Mr. Halliday later.

Witness said later on Mr. Green had told him that he (Mr. Green) and himself (Mr. Copley) were the only partners in the company.

Letters produced were read in part by Mr. Clearhue in which the word "we" was used by Mr. Green in referring to all the operations.

Witness attributed to the interference of Mr. Halliday in the affairs at the camp the losses which had been sustained and which were referred to repeatedly in the letters submitted.

After Mr. Douglas had been eliminated, witness said, Mr. Green had spoken of themselves (Mr. Green and witness) as being in control.

Witness said the transactions of the company had been carried on without his consent. He had no knowledge that the company had wound up business yet. He had lost all he had in the business.

Objection was raised by Mr. Tait to the way in which the case was conducted by the crown. It appeared that anything might be construed as "a slam" against Mr. Green was being introduced.

Cross-examined by Mr. Tait, witness said that he had been led to understand that Mr. Halliday held shares that were Mr. Green's. Mr. Green did not deny this statement, he added.

Was Ardent Admirer
Mr. Halliday had told witness that he would do anything for Mr. Green, except commit murder.

Mr. Copley said that he was to have had control of the case. Witness said it got down to his having control of the books and the road, while Mr. Douglas took charge of the logging. Witness expressed the opinion that he had had greater experience in the woods than Mr. Douglas. He had admitted writing rather strongly about Douglas's actions.

A copy of a letter from Mr. Green, dated in April, 1923, complaining of the situation, was produced by Mr. Tait. It stated that affairs were not going properly and that he (Mr. Green) had done what had been wished by those interested, Messrs. Copley, Douglas and Halliday. It added that he (Mr. Green) had advanced large sums of money.

The operations of the Cobble Hill Logging Company had ceased about September, 1923, and Messrs. Mitchell and Halliday had continued to operate as the Union Logging Company.

In reply to Mr. Tait, witness said he could not recall Mr. Green's refusing to be a director because he was not a practical logger. Mr. Copley said he thought his reason for re-

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure, filtered, Magnesia—pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

Three weeks' trial of Newbury's Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

BOY SCOUTS AFFECT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

Count Sane of Japan Speaks on Influence of Scout Movement on Future of Nations

VANCOUVER, Oct. 14.—"As I vision it, the Boy Scouts movement throughout the various countries of the world is making such progress and is being built up on such sound lines that it cannot fail but have a wonderful influence on the League of Nations of the future," said Count Tanehara Sane, commissioner of the Boy Scouts organization in Japan, in an interview here today just before sailing on the Empress of Russia for Japan.

Count Sane, who is also a liaison officer between the Japanese Boy Scouts Order and the other international associations, has just returned from attending the international convention of the League of Nations in Geneva, Switzerland, and is profoundly impressed with the success of this world-wide movement.

"In Japan," said he, "we have 60,000 boys of real quality in our association. It is only ten years since the movement started in Japan, and each year shows a steady growth of the right kind. Our boys are being taught the ideals of citizenship and conduct towards their fellow men of whatever country. The same is true of the other Boy Scouts organizations throughout the world, and that is the reason why I feel that the movement must have an important bearing on the personnel of the League of the future."

AUCTION BRIDGE LECTURE IS LIMITED

Mr. R. F. Foster Will Give Demonstrated Address at Hudson's Bay Company Store

MR. R. F. FOSTER

The forthcoming visit to Victoria of Mr. R. F. Foster, world famous expert on bridge and acknowledged authority on all games of cards, is being keenly looked forward to by auction bridge enthusiasts. Mr. Foster will be here on Monday afternoon, October 21, when he will give a demonstrated lecture on auction bridge in the restaurant of Hudson's Bay Company's store.

Mr. Foster, besides being a writer of many books on the subject of bridge, is secretary and chairman of the card committee of the Knickerbocker Whist Club of New York City, and card editor of The New York Herald-Tribune and Vanity Fair. Mr. Foster is also editor of all Hoyle's on the market today.

While probably best known for his invention of the eleven rule, which is now copied by every writer on bridge, the best players consider that his classification of the leads is quite as important. He also was the first writer to explain the double valuation system of mind training and his introduction of memory exercises for bridge are declared to be especially helpful.

Admission to the lecture will be limited to 350 ticket holders. It was announced yesterday, and seat reservations will be filled in the order in which applications are received. Tickets may now be obtained at the information bureau on the mezzanine floor of Hudson's Bay Company's store.

Dispatches from Brisbane say fierce bush fires encircle that city with practically every hill within a fifty-mile radius ablaze.

Victoria Artist's Work Is Now on Exhibition

Through the courtesy of Mr. C. H. Smith, Fort Street, an interesting exhibition of water color sketches and sketches in oils by Rose Willis is now being shown in the west window.

Mrs. W. A. Willis, the artist, is well known in Victoria as an enthusiastic member of the Island Arts and Crafts Society, and of the Sketch Club. She brings to her work an intense love of Nature in all her most charming moods, and from the environs of Victoria, so rich in color and artistic form, a number of lovely vistas and views have been skilfully portrayed. Excellent criticisms have been given of these examples of Mrs. Willis' art by competent artists and critics, a view from Transit Road and a sketch at Qualicum Beach being particularly commended.

The aerial perspective in one particular sketch of Sooke has been much stressed. There are also sketches at Shawnigan Lake in which the sky is most effectively treated. Anderson Lake, the Uplands in Springtime, Autumn tints at Duncan, and a series of sunrise sketches are all delightful in coloring and treatment. Among the sketches are a group of trees at Sidney, with a glimpse of the sea in the distance, arrest the attention. Mrs. Willis is showing also some very oil, an unusual group of trees at the Goldstream Road, in pastels as well as in oils.

ROTARIANS DISCUSS SUPERFLUITIES SALE

Progress of Arrangements Is Reported Upon by Committee—Sale to Be Held October 20

Arrangements for the Rotarian superfluities sale to be held on October 20 in the building formerly occupied by Gordon's Ltd., in aid of the Queen Alexandra Solarium fund were discussed at yesterday's luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club. Past President R. W. Mayhew made a strong appeal to all members to supply goods for the sale.

The free transportation between the hours of 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. to encourage people to attend the sale had been arranged through the courtesy of the B.C.E.R. Company, Past President Clifford Denham told the meeting. He also announced that the Rotarian superfluities sale would be held during the sale. Operation of a home-cooking stand had been promised by the women's organization. Heavy moving work would be carried out by Victorians stage hands, while material for signs had been donated and the signs were being made free of cost, Mr. Denham told the members.

Every Rotarian was urged to secure gifts from two friends to help swell the supplies for the sale. Mr. A. V. Clarke made this suggestion and a united effort will be made to canvass as many friends as possible and secure their support.

At this luncheon Mr. Lester Patrick told of his experience at the Dempsey-Tunney fight, while Mr. Lyle Dunlop told of the success of the municipal band this summer, towards which the Rotary Club raised a fund of $1,500. Ivo Henderson's orchestra, which is playing at the Capitol Theatre, rendered a musical programme during the luncheon hour.

WEST COAST DEVELOPMENT

The Canadian Pacific Railway Company is showing increasing interest in transportation and other facilities for the West Coast trade, and the fact that Mr. W. L. Wright, the general agent of the company at Vancouver, is making an investigation is a happy omen for development. The Port Alberni Board of Trade has been very active in urging added facilities and among its plans are those embracing the establishment of a lumber assembly plant and cold storage building at that port. From both these standpoints Port Alberni is a most desirable location as has been recognized for a long time by the E. & N. Railway Company.

Port Alberni is one of the busiest centres of the lumber industry on Vancouver Island. Deep sea vessels are constantly loading cargoes there and the trade of the port in lumber is increasing substantially every year. The main centres of the fishing industry of the West Coast are within easy reach of the port which is now the headquarters of many of the vessels of the fishing fleets. Intermittently for a number of years Port Alberni has had a fish packing plant in operation. With the growth of the fishing industry, particularly through the establishment of piling reduction plants, the accessibility of Port Alberni will prove an increasing factor in its favor for becoming an even more important centre than it is now for the industry. The C. P. R., through its subsidiary corporation, the E. & N. Railway Company, has always been intensely interested in the growth of the port and now, in carrying out an investigation for renewed facilities, it intimates that it believes the time is ripe for further development.

CANADA AND WEST INDIES

Last year as a result of a conference the Canada-West Indies Trade Agreement was negotiated. It was hailed at the time with a good deal of delight by the politicians responsible and was set down as one of the items to the credit of the Mackenzie King Government. A few weeks ago a deputation from the Leeward and Windward Islands waited upon Mr. Amery, the Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, and pointed out to him that in spite of the provisions of the Canada-West Indies Treaty of July, 1925, the steamship service between Canada and those colonies is now actually worse than it was then and its entire suspension is threatened. They asked Mr. Amery to lay the matter before the Canadian Government.

Evidently Canada has not thought it worth while to follow up the advantages which her politicians said would accrue from this trade treaty. The origin of the treaty was more political than economic. The treaty has been explained by a Jamaican correspondent of The London Times. He says it has two main aspects; the first, the establishment of reciprocal preferences above the normal British rate and, secondly, the establishment of a dual line of steamers to the Western and Eastern groups of Islands. Under the terms of the treaty Canada grants to Trinidad special preferences on cocoa, sugar, rum and bitters, which products represent about 57 per cent of Trinidad's export trade. Canada is granted in return preferences on flour, timber, fish, condensed milk, cheese, butter, and shoes, and a number of minor articles which come to about 16 per cent of Canada's total export trade. Thus the ratio of privileged export in favor of Trinidad is 3½ to 1.

In respect to Jamaica, Canada grants preferences on bananas, coconuts, grapefruit, rum, coffee, ginger and sugar—crops which represent about 76 per cent of the total export trade of Jamaica. In return Canada receives special preferences on flour, milk and dairy products, fish, meat, apples and potatoes, representing in the aggregate only 15½ per cent of her total export trade. Thus the ratio of preferences in favor of Jamaica is nearly 5 to 1. The reciprocal preferences between Canada and the other islands are relatively the same. It is obvious that as the staple crops of the West Indian Islands meet with severe competition from other sources the increased preferences are clearly of value to those islands. On the other hand no great importance can be attached to most of the preferences granted to Canada. Canada, for instance, is granted a preference on flour, but she already holds 97 per cent of the flour trade of Trinidad and over 70 per cent of that of Jamaica. She supplies over 50 per cent of Trinidad's import of milk products and 70 per cent of that of Jamaica. She supplies nearly 40 per cent of the fish products imported by Jamaica, and could, without any preference, readily sell as much more as she was willing to ship. Canada and Newfoundland between them control over 87 per cent of the import of fishstuffs into Trinidad. The special preferences granted by last year's treaty were not necessary, in fact their only effect has been to deplete the revenues of the Islands Governments.

The chief interest in the treaty, according to the Jamaican correspondent, centres on the operation of subsidized steamship services from Canada. The articles of the treaty were specific in this regard. They call for a fortnightly freight and passenger service (with cold storage accommodation), and a subsidiary fortnightly service for freight only to the Eastern Islands, and, as well, for a fortnightly combined freight and passenger service (cold storage and banana accommodation) to the Western Islands. Canada has not accepted any of the tenders submitted for these services, and the reason for this is that the subsidy demanded, of which Canada is to pay all but $225,000, outweighs any probable return in the way of increased freight. The cost to Canada for the proposed lines would be $2,500,000 annually, and to this must be added the loss of revenue resulting from the Customs preferences accorded to the West Indies. It would be necessary to increase Canadian exports by some $15,000,000 annually to balance revenue against expenditure. That cannot be done at the present stage in economic development. In other words, the conditions of the treaty do not appeal to the Canadian taxpayer. The Government of this country has realized it made a blunder, and now it is seeking to obviate the consequences of that blunder by refusing to assist in establishing the subsidized steamship services for which the treaty calls.

TRAFFIC IN LONDON

London's traffic, always very dense within the memory of those living, is growing more congested all the time and at a rate which is causing grave perplexity to the authorities of the world's greatest city. It is estimated, for instance, that in 1904 the residents in the greater London area made on the average 150 journeys per annum. In 1913 this average had risen to 228 and by 1925 to 482. The figures dealing with these average journeys apply to trips by public vehicles, including journeys by rail, and because they do not include transportation by private vehicles they underestimate the total growth of road-borne traffic.

With the advent of the motor car the number of vehicles seeking street room has shown an abnormal increase and it has been found necessary to limit the number of buses along different routes. This is done not only on the ground that traffic congestion must be relieved but because, too, it has been found that the facilities for transportation are in excess of the public needs. Engineering, in a review of the situation, quotes figures issued by the Ministry of Transport on London's traffic. A census has been taken which shows the ratio of the seats occupied to seats provided at different times of the day. From these it appears that over the working day, taken as extending from 6 a.m. to midnight, the percentage of tram-car seats actually occupied never exceeds 27.6 per cent, and falls in one case below 14 per cent. Corresponding figures for the buses give averages ranging between 27 per cent as a minimum to nearly 42½ as a maximum. During the rush hours from 8 to 8.5 per cent of the seating accommodation of the buses is occupied, whilst the best figure for the tram car is 79 per cent, which is attained on one route only, whilst elsewhere the rush hour percentages range from 33 per cent to 70 per cent.

As in the past much of the credit for the manner in which London's traffic is handled goes to the police and to their success in enforcing the improved regulations which are made from year to year. There is, too, in London a wonderful respect for the traffic laws. It is an interesting comment on the growth of traffic that "blocks," that is delays to traffic, are greatly less now than they used to be. In the pre-motor days such "blocks" sometimes lasted for twenty minutes before the congestion could be relieved. There is never a "block" of that duration now, although still there are many who walk because they can reach their destinations quicker than by either bus or taxi. On buses alone the daily average of people carried for the year along routes within the ten-mile radius is now over 4½ million passengers and it exceeds 5 million in the Summer months.

CAMPAIGN FUNDS

In our issue of September 11 last we published a letter from a correspondent in which the statement was made that the Liberal Party was financing Mr. A. W. Neill in his campaign as Independent candidate in Comox-Alberni in the Federal election. At Mr. Neill's request we unreservedly withdrew the suggestion and regret that it came to be published in our columns.

Germany is one country which has gained considerably by the British coal strike. Mine owners and miners in Germany have combined to secure all the profit possible through the British stoppage. To encourage an increased output in the mines the miners have been given a raise in wages and in return they are working overtime shifts. The maximum output has been reached in the German collieries, exceeding the pre-war output, and there has been a further decrease in the stocks at the pitsheads.

Note and Comment

By R. B. D.

It appears we have been deceived, or have deceived ourselves, about the conditions in Canada. We long have believed that there is nothing particularly wrong with Canada, excepting of course in a political sense, and time may be depended upon to right that wrong. We long have believed that Canadians are an eminently law-abiding, deeply religious, very temperate, and extremely industrious people. But we appear to have deceived ourselves, probably because we have been denied the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us.

From two sources we learn that social conditions in Canada are deplorable. A temperance organization of the United States lately sent one of its missionaries over to this country to survey the situation and report to the parent body. That missionary must have been a person of very acute powers of observation, for he reported this country to be in a state of complete social demoralization, particularly in the parts of the country where Government control and sale of liquor prevails.

He saw deplorable sights in Quebec. He did not see anything worth noting in Ontario, which is nominally a prohibition province. He was depressed by what he saw in the Prairie Provinces, which are not prohibition provinces. And he was horrified by what he saw in Vancouver, which is Government liquor stores and Government-regulated beer parlors. He saw view of all kinds, naked and unashamed, parading the streets and pervading the public places of Vancouver. In fact, Canada at large and Vancouver in particular were held up to public vision as horrible examples of the evils that follow in the train of the Demon Rum.

Of course we were astonished, indeed we were shocked, upon reading a summary of the report about the deplorable state of public and private morality in Vancouver. In fact, we hardly could believe what we read, for we occasionally go over to Vancouver, principally for the purpose of reconciling ourselves to life in Victoria, and although long accustomed to looking at things through eyes that are trained habitually in the art of making notes, we have never seen anything of a strikingly sordid nature occurring in the streets or the public places of Vancouver. Therefore if we had not been told about it, we never would have believed that the people of Vancouver are so vicious in their lives or so depraved in their conduct that they should be portrayed as a horrible example to the people of any city in the world, even to the people of such cities as Washington, New York, or Chicago.

Of course Vancouver is a comparatively young city, a very ambitious city, and the people of it always seem to be in a desperate hurry to get somewhere, doubtless for the purpose of doing something. In the rush of traffic somebody is killed occasionally. But the killing is usually done by motor cars, not by rifles, or pistols, or machine guns. The police system seems to be very good and extremely efficient. There may be bootleggers doing business there for aught we know, but they never have attempted to do any business with us—probably because we have never looked for them. We admit going into a Vancouver beer parlor once with a brother newspaper man, not because we were thirsty and needed refreshment, but for purposes of satisfying a merely human curiosity. Nothing of a riotous or vicious character was going on in that place of refreshment. In fact, there was a general atmosphere of depression pervading the place. The one or two persons who were sipping beer did not look as if the liquor they were drinking had a very stimulating effect upon them. They were as deeply depressed in appearance as the atmosphere of the parlor.

After the result of the late general election we were quite ready to admit that there was something rotten in the political state of Canada; after reading the report of the missionary we must be prepared to admit that there may be something radically wrong with the moral state of Canada, for we have not been endowed with the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us. But there is hope for Canada. Rev. Billy Sunday, Hon. Senator Borah, Mr. Pugsley Johnson, and several other eminent persons, have been invited to come over and help us, probably because they have an intimate knowledge of what is wrong with us. These eminent emancipators and politicians have been asked to begin their campaign of liberation and regeneration in the City of Vancouver, the Sodam or Gomorrah of this Dominion. Of course the police and other authorities of Vancouver deny that the city is in any special need of the services of a corps of uplifters. In fact, the police and the authorities of Vancouver declare that their city has been given what is figuratively known as a black eye, and have asked the society which sent out the missionary to send on a beakstick to be applied as a poultice to the discolored optical member. It is certainly refreshing and interesting to have Vancouver in particular and Canada at large held up to scorn as horrible examples of social depravity.

THE SUM AND MEAN

Consumed within the furnace of the mind.
Remodelled into forms of fairer mould.
Are those crude thoughts, archaic, born of old
Desires, with hopes of other days
After mature imagining, opined
In reason, wise-enchanted, they unfold
And flower with understanding—purest gold.
As tutored these rise from thoughts refined.
No thought—but hath its siring in the soul,
Far down the untold ages—eons past.
And kind thoughts move us to exhibit whole
And heartfelt admiration—on a last
Of erstwhile spirit formed, the sum and mean
Of thoughts and inspirations that have been.

RURAL CHURCHES ARE FAVORING COLLEGE

Congregations Support Campaign for Funds—Institutions Would Merge Two Establishments

First results in the campaign now being conducted by British Columbia Conference of the United Church for Union College are now coming in. From the Rev. Walkinshaw, whose field lies along the North Thompson, comes word that his congregation are "one hundred per cent unanimous" in raising their quota. The Rev. Thomas Keyworth's charge at James Bay, Victoria, also Mountain View, Vancouver, and Gibbon's Landing, where the Rev. T. H. Wright, R.A., has charge, are making strong headway in the campaign.

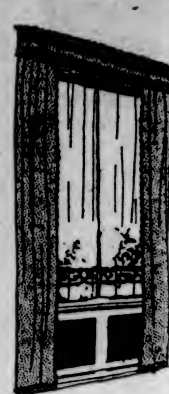

Union College of British Columbia is a theological institution, which will be erected on the campus of the provincial university at Point Grey. Religious leaders will there be instructed for the purpose of supplying pulpits in a steadily expanding church population. Union College is a merger of Ryerson College, Westminster Hall, and the Incorporated Congregational Church College. It was felt that just as the union of the three Protestant churches could aspire to accomplish greater work in the service of the kingdom, so one college would mean added strength and increased efficiency.

War Memorial At Esquimalt Makes Much Progress

A successful meeting of the Esquimalt War Memorial committee was held and conducted by the Rev. Canon W. H. Stocken, chairman, on Monday. A vote of thanks was passed to the committee composed of other organizations in Esquimalt responsible for the country fair held in the Naval Canadian Grounds last month, also to the Victoria Kennel Club for their attractive dog show, and all other organizations and individuals who contributed towards the success of the fair. The same committee was responsible for the masquerade dance recently held at the Rex Theatre. The total proceeds from both attractions appear in the accompanying treasurer's statement.

The War Memorial committee understands that the committee mentioned is also planning a Thanksgiving card party for November 2, where prizes of poultry will be given, and another masquerade, by request, for November 24. The Memorial Committee is very grateful for this assistance in raising funds, and hopes within a short time to have a beautiful war memorial erected on the space allotted for this purpose in the Esquimalt Public Park. LIBEL TRIAL MAY REACH END TODAY

CHINESE CASE EXPECTED TO GO TO JURY AT NOON IN ASSIZE COURT

Mar Poy Denies Threatening Life of Nip Sui Gim, or Defaming Her Character in Letters

The trial of Mar Poy, charged with criminal libel against a young Chinese girl, Nip Sui Gim, which began on Tuesday afternoon, the opening day of the Fall Assize here, will probably end today, and it is expected that the case will go to the jury at about noon.

The defence had closed its evidence when Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald adjourned the trial at 5:45 p.m. yesterday until 9:30 o'clock this morning.

When the Assize Court opens today, Mr. Richard C. Lowe, counsel for the private prosecution, and Mr. Frank Higgins, K.C., attorney for the accused Mar Poy, will in turn address the jury.

Defence Case Opens

When Mr. Justice McDonald took his seat on the bench yesterday, the case for the defence was opened. Mr. Higgins stated that the defence would attempt to show that the accused Mar Poy had acted in good faith throughout the dispute and that Nip Sui Gim had been wilful and would not subject herself to the discipline exercised by Mar Poy in the role of elder brother. The defence would also affirm that Mar Poy was practically one of the Nip family, being considered a very close friend by the parents and relations of Nip Sui Gim.

The accused Mar Poy took the stand in his own defence. He testified that he was twenty-six years of age, and had come to Victoria in 1915. He had been married in Canton, China. Witness had known Nip Sui Gim's family for about six years, and in answer to a query as to what his relationship was with the said family, he said he had been treated as one of them, and the friendship had even been closer since he got married.

Becomes Her Elder Brother

Witness said that Nip Sui Gim wanted to enter into a relationship with him under the old Confucian Code, whereby he would agree to act towards her as an elder brother, to guide and direct her actions and to discipline her if he deemed necessary. He had entered such an agreement, he said.

"Did your wife know about this agreement?" asked Mr. Higgins.

"Yes," Mar Poy replied.

Counsel for the defence asked the accused how Nip Sui Gim had acted after the paper had been consummated. Mar Poy stated that her behaviour was not in accordance with what was right, as he had taught her.

Interrogated as to what had been written on the paper mentioned in the following paragraph in a letter sent to Mar Poy by Nip Sui Gim, he said with a smile: "I don't remember if you still remember our first agreement please prepare to buy according to order, and to do so on the eleventh at 3:15 p.m., the hour and day of my losing you," witness stated that it referred to "buying some rat poison."

Wanted to Change Relationship

Mr. Higgins inquired why their relationship had not got to that stage.

Mar Poy said that Nip Sui Gim had refused to carry out his wishes, and that she had wanted to change the brother and sister relationship to that of husband and wife, which witness declared he would not do.

Witness, asked why he had written the two alleged libelous letters to the prosecutrix, replied that he had heard that she had been going with people who he thought were not good, and accordingly had written to admonish her, in his capacity as elder brother under their agreement.

From the witness stand, Mar Poy proceeded to read aloud the letters he had written to Nip Sui Gim on May 14 and May 19. The letters, complained of Nip Sui Gim going out secretly for motor car rides; of refusing to retire from the presence of strange men after the customary few words; of "making eyes" at men; of failure to tell him everything, and of disregarding his wishes and directions.

Says He Was Doing His Duty

Mr. Higgins inquired of witness if it was his duty, after entering into the agreement with the girl, to write these letters to her.

"Under the Chinese Code, the elder brother, in this relationship is the parent. It was my duty to write as I did," asserted Mar Poy, who also said that there was nothing written by him that reflected on the character of the girl.

Witness said he had written the letters in the classical tongue, and the letters were different from the language which appeared in the Chinese newspapers.

Mr. Justice McDonald asked Mar Poy if he thought that Nip Sui Gim, who was born in Victoria and educated in local schools, would likely be able then to understand the classical characters which were contained in his letters to the girl.

"I think she would be able to understand. I told her that anything she couldn't make out to let me know and

Claims She Never Resented Letters

Mar Poy said he had seen her a number of times after he had sent her the letters, and told the court that she had never resented the letters.

"Did you receive any notes from Nip Sui Gim since the preliminary hearing in the police court," witness was asked.

Replying, Mar Poy said about one week ago she had dropped a note to him from her window on Flagstaff Street, the paper in question containing the following words:

"No matter who wins or loses, could you go back to China and marry Munn?" (Munn, it was explained, meant Nip Sui Gim).

Witness testified that later she had thrown down another piece of paper which read as follows: "If not, Munn will get engaged to other people here. You must swear and answer."

Mar Poy, he said, told her that if her father sued him and had him deported to China, he would return here by way of America and take her life.

"No Forceful Language Used"

Under cross-examination by Mr. R. C. Lowe, counsel for the prosecution, witness said that the translation by interpreters for the prosecution of the letters he had sent the girl was not correct. He denied that he had used forceful language in his letters, and disagreed with the story told by Nip Sui Gim when she was on the witness stand.

Mr. Lowe asked Mar Poy if he hadn't been anxious to get the letters he had written Nip Sui Gim back, and if he didn't threaten to take the life of the girl if she wouldn't steal the letters from her father.

"I never threatened her life, nor did I ask her to steal the letters. I didn't care whether I had them back, for I had nothing to be afraid of," Mar Poy answered.

Witness said that the disciplinary agreement was still in force at the time he had written the two letters, and admitted that he had never complained to Nip Sui Gim's parents of the breach of the agreement.

Mar Poy's Wife on Stand

Pun Yat Ying took the witness stand and said she was the wife of Mar Poy, the accused, and was living with him. She had been here for four or five years, and had formerly worked in a restaurant. Mar Poy had been a close friend of the Nip family, and she had known that this relationship existed when she came to this country.

"Did you know of any disciplinary agreement between the accused and Nip Sui Gim and did you approve of it?" witness was asked.

"Yes, I knew of it and approved of it."

Mr. Lowe wanted to know how witness would approve of the pact when she was not able to read a document.

Witness replied: "My husband told me the terms of the agreement and then I approved of it."

Mr. Lowe asked witness if her husband had not gone in June to Vancouver for the purpose of escaping the trouble with Nip Sui Gim.

"No, his trip there had nothing to do with it. He went over to see if he could get work there," she responded.

Matter of Translation

Charles Chee, another defence witness, said he had studied the Chinese language for twelve years and he had had tuition in the Chinese classics. He had been educated in the local public and high schools and also had spent one semester at the Chinese University.

He believed that the translation of the letters of Mar Poy by interpreters for the prosecution was wrong, although he admitted it was possible for the communications to be translated differently by his interpretation of them. He thought Nip Sui Gim would be able to understand the characters in Mar Poy's letters.

Witness claimed there was nothing wrong in that the elder brother, in the relationship that existed between Mar Poy and Nip Sui Gim, should have written to the sister in the manner the accused had written.

Mr. Lowe queried Chee as to whether he considered the letters were complimentary to Nip Sui Gim.

"If she takes the literal point of view, according to the literal translation they are not complimentary," Chee replied.

"If she took the letters in the colloquial sense, they would be basely insulting, wouldn't they?" declared Mr. Lowe.

"Yes—that is my answer to that question."

Code of Confucius

Mr. Harry Hastings, who has been officiating as court interpreter, has put on the witness stand by the defence. He said that by the Code of Confucius there were three forms of relationship of brother and sister, namely, by blood, by contract and by adoption. He testified that such relationship was very often seen in China, but he had never before heard of one in Victoria.

Witness admitted that the letters of Mar Poy could be translated in two ways, and this depended upon the point of view and angle of approach taken by the person who translated.

"Yes—that is my answer to that question."

Mr. Stuart Henderson told the court that he knew nothing about the case, beyond the visit made to his home one night by the accused Mar Poy, who was accompanied by another Chinese youth and Nip Sui Gim. Witness was asked to persuade the girl of the wisdom of returning to

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaels

Do not ask me, "Is it wise?" with that wonder in your eyes. Wisdom, doubtless, is to know much of Earth, its joy and woe. Wisdom is to dwell apart from the folly of the heart, from the sweet and simple things, which, man's daily living brings. Wisdom is to go alone into realms that few have known, seeking on those lonely heights solemn joys and rare delights. Yet, I feel, scant gladness lies in such lofty destinies, and the wisdom I would choose is the lore the humble use; knowledge of the tender notes from the happy bluebirds throats, and of games the children play at the tranquil close of day. Wisdom is most highly prized as a light within your eyes little candle-gleams of bliss; what have ages like to this?

Fashion Fancies

By Marie Belmont

The dress pictured above is one of the more dressy sport models, and is particularly striking because of its lines and color. The dress is of peach crepe, but the pleated front of the skirt is of sections of peach, yellow and green.

The collar, cuffs and pocket trimming also introduce the attractive colors in an odd little design.

Auburn Hair and Average Complexion

For Afternoon Wear

The woman whose complexion is neither too vivid nor too pale has a great advantage over her less fortunate sisters, for when she starts off blithely to buy a little afternoon frock she has precious little to trouble her in the matter of color. Let her make sure that the color of her eyes can be enhanced and the shading in her hair emphasized and all her worries are over.

There are times when one feels the need of an all-round frock that can be worn to the tea. Mrs. Black is giving next week to the club meeting that is coming along soon, and any little evening affair where formal dress will not be required. It is this useful frock that I am characterizing as an afternoon dress. And here are four good colors from which the dress may be fashioned for the woman with auburn hair and average complexion:

Blouses in Many Variations

Smart Shirt Fronts Are Worn with Tailor-Mades—Lizard Skin Shoes Most Fashionable

Blouses pass under different names and are worn in many ways.

With a strictly tailored tweed or later will be of white China silk, or white toile de soie, or white ribbed silk, cut like a man's shirt, with soft cuffs and turned-down collar, and with or without a tucked or plaid front, shaped and inserted. A bow at the long tie may be worn with it, a plain gold bar may hold the tie in place, and links fasten the cuffs. It is worn over the skirt and the degree of length over the hips is important, for an inch too little or too much may spoil the whole.

Tailor-Made Blouses

A blouse to be worn with a town tailor-made will agree with the coat and skirt in color. It may be lighter or darker or in the same color as the trimming. With a mixed red cloth coat and skirt, the blouse is of a brighter red georgette trimmed with brown thread patterns. With a brown coat and skirt the blouse is of banana georgette trimmed with brown embroidery. With a beige Kaasha, into which is woven a row of broad, the blouse is of rose-colored georgette. A blue serge coat and skirt, trimmed with bright red has a blouse of red crepe de Chine trimmed with blue silk braid.

With velvet tailor-mades blouses are more elaborate. A black velvet coat and skirt has a blouse of white crepe satin embroidered with black and white. A black panne coat and skirt has a blouse of imitation coat of mail in gold metal threads. Another black velvet coat and skirt has a blouse of steel color. Lane blouses are also put with velvet coats and skirts. They are usually cut straight, like jumpers, and may have long or short sleeves. Shirt fronts are embroidered on some of them. Others are embroidered or tucked all over. Some are braided and others are spliced.

Hip Yokes for Skirts

All blouses are worn over the skirt and to be slim the skirt is made with a hip yoke of strong crepe de Chine. Belts are worn on blouses, often of suede leather, or material trimmed with metal. On a white blouse a narrow belt of bright suede is permissible; on a colored blouse a belt of gold, silver, or steel may be put.

Pockets are patched on blouses. Little pockets with embroidered flaps, breast pockets and slit pockets with piped edges are set sideways. A motto or a monogram may be embroidered on a pocket, or a little landscape in colored silks. Collars and cuffs are also embroidered, but only when there is no other trimming.

Linings and Hats

The lining of the coat corresponds with the blouse or with its material. When the lining is neutral the hat may correspond with the blouse and be made of felt, velvet, panne, or satin. A bag which goes with the coat and skirt is preferable to one which matches the blouse and hat. In leather it goes with tweed, in velvet with velvet, in silk or leather with cloth or Kasha or Winter crepe.

Subject of Shoes

Shoes may be chosen with a view to economy. Brown, beige, grey and black are most useful (than brighter shoes). Light beige kid shoes, ornamented with two shades of glazed brown kid and enamel buckles, are worn with beige stockings. Grey kid has applications of black or lighter grey, and is worn with grey stockings. Grey doeskin is trimmed with glazed kid in a darker shade. Lizard skin trimmings on plain kid shoes are fashionable, and black glazed kid is frequently trimmed with velvet—grey, white, brown, and for more fanciful wear with blue, red, green. Brown shoes trimmed with black are worn.

Heels may be in the color of the trimmings, as, for instance, a black glazed kid shoe is trimmed with violet kid and has a violet heel. Wooden buckles are insisted to match the trimmings on the shoes. A black glazed shoe is trimmed with lizard skin and blonde stitching; the buckle is black, grey, and blonde, in complete afternoon gown of some sort. A blonde doeskin shoe is trimmed with hazel kid straps and has a topaz-colored ornament. Chestnut colored lizard skin has a band of

BURNLEY HAS CHANCE TO ADVANCE FURTHER

First Division Soccer Leaders Meet
Blackburn Rovers Tomorrow—
Struggle at Highbury

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Having turned the tables on Sunderland on Tuesday, Burnley now occupies the position of leaders in the First Division of the English Soccer League, and on Saturday they will be given an opportunity to advance further in their quest for championship honors when they come up against the comparatively humble Blackburn Rovers at Highbury.

It is four weeks since the Rovers tasted the sweets of victory, the six games they have played in that period having been divided equally between draws and losses.

Two games are scheduled for the Metropolitan area, with a real London struggle staged for Highbury. There, the Arsenal entertain their old rivals, West Ham, and at White Hart Lane the Spurs are hosts to Sheffield United.

Hammers Unimpressive
West Ham have had only two victories this season, one against Everton, and the second against West Bromwich. Their record is unimpressive on the whole, and does not stand well in comparison with that of Arsenal.

A somewhat even game will be staged at White Hart Lane, for the Spurs and Sheffield United are travelling pretty much in company.

The Spurs are stronger goal-getters, a fact that was demonstrated a week ago when they made it 6 to 1 against Birmingham. They have dropped only two games this season.

Sunderland are looked upon as the better team against Aston Villa on Saturday, the recent showing of the Villa being a puzzle to their supporters. They have fallen on evil days, although a ray of hope pierced the gloom last Saturday when the Villa made it 3 to 1 over Derby County.

Sunderland Slipping
Sunderland, who led the league until Burnley topped them on Tuesday, have run into a couple of defeats the Burnley episode coming on top of a rough time at the hands of Leicester City.

Other encounters are Derby County at Birmingham; Manchester United at Bury; Newcastle at Everton; Leeds at Leicester; Liverpool at Sheffield Wednesday and Bolton Wanderers at West Bromwich.

"No, Bobby," said his mother, "one piece of pie is quite enough for you."

"It's funny," responded Bobby, with an injured air. "You say you are anxious that I should learn to eat properly, and yet you won't give me a chance to practice!"

Suzanne Lenglen Wins Against Mary Browne

BALTIMORE, Oct. 14.—Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star again administered defeat to Mary K. Browne, former American champion, in their professional tournament tonight. The French girl won 6-0, 6-0 before a crowd of 5,000 which expressed little enthusiasm over her performance. Vincent Richards was hard pressed to defeat H. Snodgrass, 6-2, 4-4.

Football Line-Ups

Banish Rovers' junior football eleven to meet the Y.M.C.A. on Saturday at Beacon Hill upper ground, will be selected from the following: Reid, Hale, Pierce, Potter, Shaw, Tobby, Woods, Nemion, Walters, Paddock, Tobby, MacLeod and T. Moir.

The juvenile team will be selected from the following: Stevens, Field, Hanson, Kennedy, Okomoto, Mowatt, Dempsey, Christopher, Musgrave, Rosenius, Hopkins, G. Smith, H. Pierce and A. Price.

The Five C's junior football line-up for their game against Esquimalt, at Victoria West Park on Saturday, at 3 o'clock, was announced last night as follows: Jelliman; Taylor and Martin; McDonald, Viggers and Vickers; Sutton, Easler, Collins, Groves and Viggers. Reserves: Hume, White and Margison.

Players who are unable to turn out are requested to phone 1742R.

The Football Gate

To the Sport Editor,
I note by today's (Wednesday) Colonist that Victoria City Football Club are to play St. Andrews, from Vancouver, on Saturday afternoon of this week at the Athletic Park. I would just like to say that I hope the management do not make the mistake of charging 35 cents for admission, remembering the result of the last match with an outside team. Charge 25 cents and let all followers know it, and sure enough there will be a better gate. Profit by past experience, and don't keep making the same mistake of overcharging.

LOCAL TEAM SELECTED TO MEET MAINLANDERS

Victoria City Will Have St. Andrew's as Their Guests at Royal Athletic Park on Saturday

The Victoria City soccer eleven to oppose St. Andrew's at the Royal Athletic Park on Saturday, with the kick-off at 2:30 p.m., was announced last night as follows: Leeming; Tuckwell and Glancy; Thornt, Merritt and Robertson; Phillips; Playfair, Ashby, Merfield and Cameron. Reserves: Sinkinson and Smith.

The team had their final workout last night at the Metropolis and the boys looked in good shape for the game. The visitors are rated as one of the best teams on the Mainland, and the locals will have a hard problem on their hands. Local fans will remember how last season the St. Andrew's eleven came from behind with the score two to nil and defeated the Veterans by three to two. It is expected that the grandstand will be packed to capacity tomorrow.

The Victoria City players are requested to be at the Metropolis at 1:45 o'clock.

Hungarian Government To Be Reconstructed

BUDAPEST, Oct. 14.—The Bethlen Government has resigned. This ministry took office in April, 1921. Count Bethlen handed the resignation of his cabinet to Regent Horthy this evening. It is understood that he will be asked to reconstruct his ministry next week. President Von Soltovszky of the National Assembly is slated for the all-important post of Minister of Interior, succeeding M. Rakovsky, resigned. Louis Valeo, Bethlen's Trade Minister, becomes Foreign Minister, a portfolio held by the Premier himself. M. Herman will become Minister of Trade.

Result of Scandal
PARIS, Oct. 14.—A Havas News Agency dispatch from the Hungarian capital links the resignation of the Bethlen ministry with the notorious 30,000,000 French francs counterfeit scandal.

"Following the decision of the court of Cassation in confirming the sentence of the convicted forgers," says the dispatch, "the cabinet, considering its political responsibility, tendered its resignation to the Regent."

ADMIRAL TOGO'S DEATH FEARED BY PHYSICIANS

Famous Japanese Naval Leader of Russian War Is Bedridden With Nervous Trouble

TOKIO, Oct. 15.—Japan's greatest naval fighting man, Admiral Count Hihachiro Togo, outstanding figure of the Russo-Japanese War, is bedridden as the result of a nervous trouble. Because of his advanced age, physicians are somewhat anxious. It was Togo's strategy which outmanoeuvred and defeated the Russian fleet in their spectacular engagement in the sea of Japan, May 27, 1905. This was the turning point of the war and it made of him a national hero, acclaimed not only in Japan but throughout the world as a brilliant commander. His victory drove the Russian flag from the Pacific. It won for him the decoration of the Grand Order of Merit. Admiral Togo is also a veteran of the Japan-China War.

WHEAT POOL MAKES ITS FINAL DECISION

Some Quarter Billion Dollars Represents Amount Paid to Alberta Farmers Alone

WINNIPEG, Oct. 14.—A total of $1,850,000, representing a final payment of five cents a bushel on the 1925-26 crop, will be paid farmers in the Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba wheat pools, it was announced last night following sessions of the Central selling agency at the Winnipeg offices. One dollar a bushel was the initial payment made for the 1925-26 crop year and this was followed by an interim payment of 20c a bushel and another interim payment of 20c, making, with the five cents now given, a total payment of $1.45, or about $250,000,000 in Alberta alone.

Christian Influence Holds in Check Japanese Flappers

Motion pictures and temple festivals lose their charms for Japanese maidens after they become converted, and they no longer sigh for pretty kimono and sparkling ornaments for their hair when they find the Christian religion, declared Miss Frances Hawkins, on the eve of her return to Japan after six years in the mission field there.

Miss Hawkins went out on the liner Empress of Russia last evening to the Orient.

Writs Are Issued for Federal By-Elections

OTTAWA, Oct. 14.—Writs for the by-elections of all the members of the cabinet have now been issued except one, the writ for North Bruce, where Hon. James Macdonald, Minister of Trade and Commerce, will stand for re-election, which has been delayed by the final count which is to take place today. It is quite possible that the final returns in North Bruce will permit the by-election there on November 14.

Generally, it is understood that the majority of the by-elections at least will not be contested, and that the ministers will be declared elected on nomination day.

COMOX EXHIBITION FINANCIAL SUCCESS

THANKS TO HELP OF WOMEN MEMBERS, BALANCE IN BANK REMAINS

Usefulness of Agricultural Association to District Is Stressed by the Secretary in Report

COURTESY, Oct. 14.—At the annual meeting of the Comox Agricultural Association, held here Wednesday night with Mr. W. A. B. Paul in the chair, the officers and directors elected for the coming year are as follows: Honorary presidents, Mrs. Wm. Lewis and Mr. Alex. Urquhart; president, Mr. W. A. B. Paul; first vice-president, Mr. R. U. Hurford; second vice-president, Mr. J. W. Stalker; secretary, Mr. Felix Thomas; treasurer, Mr. M. B. Tribe; directors, Messrs. W. McPherson, W. Brown and Moore, Wm. Duncan, John Crockett, Hugh Morrison, W. J. Gunn, A. R. England, W. A. Urquhart, Alan Pattinson, M. S. Stephens, Herbert Smith and D. M. Isenor.

The treasurer's report showed a very successful financial year. After making provision for all outstanding accounts, including the 1926 Fall fair prize in full, there is a useful cash balance in the bank.

Women's Auxiliary

The report of the Ladies' Auxiliary, submitted by Messdames McPherson and Brown, was also very satisfactory. The auxiliary undertook heavy catering duties during the fair which necessitated a great deal of hard work. Besides handing over a substantial sum to the parent association, their report showed a good cash balance in the bank. Mr. Hurford moved a very hearty vote of thanks to the ladies for their strenuous efforts at fair time, to which Mrs. McPherson replied on behalf of the auxiliary.

The chairman expressed thanks to the secretary for his efforts in clearing the association of debt, the treasurer for making provision for funds at the necessary time, and to Mr. Herbert Smith as chairman of the hall committee. As a mark of appreciation for her work during the year, Mrs. Felix Thomas was unanimously voted an honorarium of $50 by the meeting.

Matter of arranging flowers and carrying out improvements to the premises was left in the hands of the directors. A resolution of the Comox Farmers' Institute to bring the matter of damage done by beavers and other fur-bearing animals to the attention of the advisory board of the Institute was endorsed by the meeting.

A petition to permit bona fide farmers to shoot game on any lands animals that are doing serious damage to crops, particularly deer and pheasants, was also endorsed and circulated for further signatures.

Secretary's Report

"During the year the association's activities have included a series of lectures on various phases of agriculture, lecturers having been supplied by the Provincial Department of Agriculture, the University of British Columbia and other bodies. For the most part the lectures were well attended and the subjects included soils, crops, poisons, poultry husbandry, eggs, orchards and fruit, seeds and bulbs, fertilizers and lime, dairying and side lines. Under the auspices of the association a pruning school was conducted in the late winter, and a lime demonstration competition in the spring. A jubilee sale was conducted by the association last December and was completed at the New Year. This effort made for the association about $180.

"The matter of getting out the prize lists at an earlier date is an important one, and largely depends on the functioning of all members of the revision committees appointed for this work. The decision of the association to award no second prize unless there are three or more entries in a class has had an adverse effect on the exhibition, but this can now be rectified. There is no doubt that the directors and the auxiliary have a great interest in it. If the grounds are ploughed and harrowed this fall, and leveled and seeded in the spring,

WELL-KNOWN CITIZEN DIES AT DUNCAN

Mr. Hugh Clark Drummond Had Been Long Resident at Maple Bay

DUNCAN, Oct. 14.—The death occurred yesterday evening at the King's Daughters' Hospital, of Mr. Hugh Clark Drummond, one of Maple Bay's best known and highly respected citizens.

He was the oldest son of the late Mr. Alexander Drummond and Mrs. Drummond, pioneer settlers of the district, who settled there forty years ago. He leaves his mother, a sister, Mrs. R. Symes of Crofton, and two brothers, Alexander and Thomas, of Maple Bay.

The late Mr. Drummond was in his forty-first year when he was born in Edinburgh, Scotland. He was six months old when his parents settled in the Cowichan valley.

During the war he served overseas, in France, with the First Canadian Pioneer Battalion, and was a charter member of the Cowichan branch of the Canadian Legion. The funeral will take place on Saturday from the Brockway Funeral Parlors at 10 a.m., to the Maple Bay Cemetery.

Interesting Addresses

On Child Welfare

COBBLE HILL, Oct. 14.—A meeting of the Mothers' Union was held in the hall on Tuesday afternoon, over twenty members being present. Mr. C. Moss, O.B.E., gave a most interesting and appropriate address on "Child Welfare."

Mrs. W. E. Cockcroft, also gave a brief resume of the Union and distributed literature. Mrs. Lewington submitted an interesting report, showing that the Union was doing a great deal of good in the district. A hearty vote of thanks to the speakers was tendered by Mrs. Barclay-Wilmet.

A touching feature of the proceedings was a silence of one minute in memory of the late president, Mrs. Constance Barry, followed by the singing of her two favorite hymns.

A letter was read from Mrs. Barry, thanking the ladies of the Union for the flowers sent during his wife's illness and for the funeral.

Mrs. Barclay-Wilmet, assisted by Mrs. H. Hollings, presented a delightful tea.

British Columbia Electric Railway Light House Are to be Subject of Discussion With Officials

A letter was received from Mr. Rosher, of the East Road, suggesting that space be obtained to display to incoming and outgoing tourists at the Sidney wharf, something in the line of products of the seed growers. This matter will be looked into and possibly will result in some such display.

The gross income tax question was then debated at considerable length, and finally a committee of three was appointed to examine the merits and demerits of the proposed scheme of taxation to replace the present tax.

Mr. H. A. McKillop gave a report of the interview with the Minister of Lands on the forestry question on Tuesday, and decided to again approach the Government with a request that the Government was considering the question of forestry rights in intensifying a thorough inquiry into the whole question, it appears that many difficult problems are arising as regards these rights.

The Board then discussed the service rates as charged by the B.C. Electric, and decided to again approach the company for lower rates, co-operating with the Saanich Municipality in their endeavor.

Fish traps were then discussed, the members being of the opinion that they should be abolished, and the secretary was instructed to communicate with the Department of Fisheries, and to bring the subject to the attention of the Vancouver Island board of trade.

SWEEPSTAKE PLAN SUGGESTED FOR FUND

Nanaimo Board Is Asked to Endorse Project for Raising Hospital Building Funds

NANAIMO, Oct. 14.—The Nanaimo Board of Trade has appointed a committee consisting of the president, vice-president and secretary to confer with other organizations of the city with the object of devising some scheme whereby funds can be raised to complete the new hospital building, work on which was suspended some time ago through lack of funds.

At a meeting of the Hospital Association some time ago three plans were suggested for the purpose of raising money to finish the new building and put it into commission as a hospital. Nothing has been heard from the Hospital Association, and so the question was brought up at the Board of Trade meeting. One of the schemes suggested was a big lottery plan, and in this suggestion the Board of Trade was in complete agreement.

"Whereas the Nanaimo Board of Trade is in sympathy with the movement to co-operate with the Provincial Government towards doing its share in the effort to raise funds sufficient to complete and primarily equip the new hospital building, and thus enable this much needed public institution to properly function in the community.

"Therefore, be it resolved that this Board goes on record as endorsing the principle of a sweepstake competition which is suggested as having been tried in other sections of the country on behalf of similar worthy causes, the details of which would be worked out by a joint committee of the Board of Trade and Hospital Board, provided the necessary sweepstake campaign is forthcoming from the Dominion Government from which it will be necessary to solicit the required permission through the generous instrumentality of the local representative of the city in the Provincial Legislature, Hon. Wm. Sloan, Minister of Mines and Provincial Secretary."

There was considerable discussion on the resolution, and while there was some opposition to the scheme, the feeling of the meeting was in its favor. However, no vote was taken on the resolution, and it was decided to write the various service clubs of the city with the idea of holding a get-together meeting and further testing out feeling regarding the proposed sweepstake.

A circular sent out by Secretary M. C. Ironside, which sought to make Nanaimo the headquarters for employment on the Island was endorsed by the Board.

Prepayment of Taxes

Sir,—You say in your issue of 11th inst. "Through the success of the prepayment of taxes system the city has been able to meet its obligations throughout the year, thus keeping down the amount of its bank loan, as well as saving to the taxpayers considerable interest that it would otherwise have to pay to the bank."

Is it not a fact that they saved the corporation nothing, for if they had not paid the ratepayers they would have had to pay the bank?

Please permit me to attempt dissection: The combined interest paid taxpayers and bank for advances in 1925 was (vide annual report, page 29), $22,033; the total tax levy was $1,779,714, which, when added together, makes $1,801,747.

This was added to the estimates, and, of course, ignored pro rata, so that those not able to avail themselves of it were paying more, so that the others could be paid, which I submit is not an equitable public administration, but more of a delusion.

Neither were the beneficiaries profiting to the extent they anticipated. For a part had the first added to their bill in order that it might be taken off.

If you will please permit me, in another letter I have a recreational station which would obliterate this loan, with another alternative, for amelioration.

The tax levy must not be confused with the budget, for this amounts to $3,241,041.54, the cost of carrying on the corporation for 1925.

Assessment Increases

Sir,—In the report of the meeting published in The Colonist of the 14th inst., under the heading "Court to Hear Owners' Protest," I am made to say, "I for one have a capital investment of $200,000." Much as I would like this to be a true statement of fact, I would kindly ask you to publish this letter, and I did not make that statement, nor did I make the statement, "When rents are low and there is no prospect of increased rents, I believe that we will experience a decided improvement in conditions in the future; in consequence rentals will increase. I think the error occurred in quoting me as having said what one of the other speakers may have said."

In reference to the right of the Court of Revision to increase the assessments over those made by the assessor, my contention was that the notice of the proposed increase by the Court of Revision was insufficient, as some non-residents would not have had time to receive the notice and appear before the Court of Revision and state their complaint.

A more satisfactory way would appear to be that increases of a general nature should be taken up with the assessor before he has compiled his assessment roll, then in this way the taxpayers would, in the regular course, have received their assessment notices and have time to make their appeals in the usual manner.

If the proposed increase is made in the way the Court of Revision now suggest, it will create in the mind of the taxpayer a feeling of uncertainty, as, after having received the official assessment notice showing the assessment for the year, he will be in doubt as to whether it will be the amount so stated or a greater amount if the Court of Revision should increase it. This would create a feeling of unrest and uncertainty in the mind of the taxpayer, and would have a tendency to cause the taxpayer, for his protection, to appeal to the Court of Revision against all his assessments, otherwise his assessment might be increased by the Court of Revision over the amount as shown in the official notice of the assessment.

If Mr. Swinerton will re-read The Colonist's report of the meeting of property owners he will see that he was not credited with saying he had a capital investment of $200,000. The remarks in which that sentence occurs were credited to Mr. H. J. Davis.—The Editor.

International Language

Sir,—An accredited delegate for this district of the Universala Esperanto Asocio, Geneva, the hub and centre of the Esperanto movement—it is impossible for me to allow the assertions made in your article of the 13th to pass without comment and contradiction. I do not know who Mr. W. R. Rickmers, of Bremen, Germany is, but I do know that he is quite wrong about the present state of the Esperanto movement and has no right to make such assertions as "It is not used for trade or social intercourse." It is that a German of all people, should make such a statement, shows either crass ignorance or malice prepense. Germany and Japan are perhaps the two leading countries for the use of Esp. in advertising, and in Japan it is superceding the use of English for commercial communications with Europe. Does he not know that the great international fairs of Leipzig, Frankfurt, Heilbronn, Lyons, Paris, Padova, Goteberg, etc. use and advertise in it? Does he not know that the chief tourist resorts such as Basel, Budapest, Locarno, Geneva, the Swiss Alps advertise in it, and the health resorts of Carlsbad, Wiesbaden, Torquay, etc.? Is he so ignorant that he does not know that great firms like Cadbury, Borden's Ink, Burroughs & Welcome, the Hamburg-American Line and the North German Lloyd's Air Travel, etc., etc., all use it? I admit that the number of teachers is insufficient, for thousands of people use it without obtaining diplomas of proficiency, but this is being remedied by the excellent lessons now procurable on gramophone records. These lessons were spoken by Dr. Edmond Privat, perhaps the most fluent Esperanto speaker living, and an expert in the language. He is interpreter to the League of Nations.

Does Mr. Rickmers not know that regular broadcasting is done in Esperanto from about twenty-six of the chief stations of the world, several of which broadcast Esperanto lessons? Has he never heard of the North American Radio League, the largest organization of its kind—and that it has adopted Esperanto for its international communications? Does he not know that two of the three great Paris radio stations use it? That at its International Conference in 1921 the Red Cross strongly recommended all its younger members to learn it? Did he not hear of the International Congress of Teachers in 1925, when sixteen governments were represented and teachers came from twenty-eight different countries? Did he not know that they drew up a manifesto which was sent to the League of Nations urging that Esperanto should be taught in the public schools of all countries? He cannot have heard of the businessmen's international congress in Venice in 1923 for the adoption of an international language in commerce, where Esperanto was again strongly recommended; or of the International Congress of Science in Lyons, in 1924, which approved the Venice decision.

In May, 1925, at an International Congress on the use of Esperanto in the pure and applied sciences, under the patronage of the French Association for the Advancement of Science, where there were representatives from 112 scientific and technical societies from thirty countries, and many delegates from governments, a resolution was adopted to prepare and establish technical and scientific vocabularies for the various sciences. The International Women's Co-operative Association has adopted the language. At the preliminary committee meeting to arrange the Congress of the World Youth Peace Organization, to be held in Holland in 1928, it was decided that all speeches were to be translated into Esperanto only. There are 50,000 members in the British Federation of this organization alone; and the language has been adopted as a language en clair by The International Telegraph Union of the World—on the same par exactly as English, French, etc. I must not ask for more space, but I have not told the half. Mr. R. says the language has made no progress. Were there about 100 Esperanto papers published regularly in 1927, as there are now? He does not know what he is talking about. I challenge him to deny my statements and invite him to come and see in my office the proofs of them. I feel convinced that my offer will not be accepted.

Safety on the Roads

Sir,—Will you allow me this opportunity of thanking the driver of an automobile which passed me at forty miles per hour for having spared my life on the Burnside Road this evening at about ten past six? This particular driver showed marvellous skill, in my estimation. The road was dark, wet and greasy, and there was another Ford approaching in the opposite direction, about fifty feet away. The driver, not wishing to unduly excite me, roared by without sounding his horn, and his rear wheel passed within six feet of my front of wheel. After such wonderful steering, I was surprised to note the erratic manner in which the car swerved off the road, parked outside, emitting a telegraph post and then trying to cut figure eights before straightening out on the road again.

If this should meet the eye of the driver of the other Ford approaching me when the automobile dashed in between us, I sincerely hope he or she did not get the scare I got, and furthermore, I hope the driver of the automobile will never have occasion to take such chances again.

I might mention that I saw an Oldsmobile, licence number of which is known to me, parked outside a well known hotel on Yates Street at fifteen minutes past six this evening.

The Flying Line Stage

Sir,—For some years past I have been monitoring over the East Saanich Road in and from Victoria in all sorts of weather and have not infrequently made six to seven trips during the week. I can conscientiously say that the young men who are operating the Flying Line buses are exceedingly careful and most efficient in the handling of their cars. At no time, have I noticed any attempt on their part to "hog" the road; in fact, in this respect it is quite the reverse, for I have personally seen them leave the beaten track and give some wild person the whole of the road.

There is another point that is worth mentioning. A Flying Line or Deep Cove bus will never pass a car on the road that is in trouble. To my knowledge both lines have been, and are today, carrying passengers free who have, through accident, become incapacitated and unable to work.

It is only very rarely that I write to the newspapers, but there are occasions when one cannot sit back and remain silent, especially in the present instance when, knowing as I do from personal observation that the boys driving the Flying Line earn their money honestly, and that they have been unfairly criticised, if all stage lines are as cautiously operated as the Flying Line and the Stacey-Sanger Line in Deep Cove, then the motorist journeying from Victoria to Sidney and Deep Cove need not feel the least bit alarmed or fear any danger of coming into contact with the buses operated by either of these companies.
